FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A Loyola Working Women's Association (L.W.W.A.) was formed on February 4, 1971. It has so far held two meetings, each of them attended by 30-35 women. Membership is open to all salaried and wage-earning women at Loyola. The Association plans not only to investigate the status of women at Loyola, it also hopes to raise the consciousness of women and men alike in respect to the image and achievements of women in modern society. Along these lines, it is hoped that an interdisciplinary course on Women in Modern Society will be offered next year at Loyola under the auspices of the Evening Division.

The formation of this Association comes as a result of the growing interest in the status of women, and in particular that of the working woman; it follows the formation of such a group at Sir George Williams University and other institutions.

The president of the Association is Dr. Margret Andersen. For further information, please call (482-0320) Locals 273 or 437.
